Kittelberger Resigns Nominations Open

At the FLOW Steering Committee meeting on January 6 President Steve Kittelberger resigned, effective in 60 to 90 days. Kittelberger has been president since February, 1997. The Committee agreed on a process for nominations of all officers and raised the following initial nominees:

President ..... Mike Shafer
Vice President ..... Cathy Rague
Secretary ..... Dorothy Sullivan
Treasurer ..... Ed Boggs.

A nominee for the second Vice President is needed. Additional nominees for any of the elected positions may be made by contacting a member of the Nominating Committee by February 15. The nominating Committee consists of:

Mike Marini ..... 241-3623
Harry Weidman ..... 315-524-9295
Melanie Wellington... 235-7498
Doc Pierson ..... 889-4174

A ballot will be mailed in the March FLOWLINES. Nominations or votes may be cast by any FLOW member in good standing.

When the new officers are in place, the Steering Committee will proceed to appoint chairs to the positions of Membership, Education, Hotline, Trip Coordinator, Webmaster, Facilities Development Conservation and Access Chair, and Public Relations.

FLOW was formed in the summer of 1996 as a spinoff of the Genesee Waterways Center.

February General Meeting Grand Canyon Slideshow

Date: Thursday, February 10, 2000

Time: 7:00 P.M.

Place: Brighton Town Hall
2300 Elmwood Ave

Jerry Hargrave presents Three Hard Boaters Take On The Colorado In A Commercial Maze Of Rafters From Oregon And Washington. Although there are many whitewater shots, the intent is not just to show the rapids and whitewater, but also to expound on the solitude, wildlife, and natural settings within the canyon walls only accessible by river. Jerry's photographs are liberally supplemented with numerous slides contributed by Andy Cooper and Jol Shelton.

Wilderness First Responder Course Offered

BayCreek Paddling Center is sponsoring a Wilderness First Responder course this spring. Instructors from SOLO (Stonehearth Open Learning Opportunities) in Conway, New Hampshire will be traveling to Rochester to teach this 9 day, 80 hour wilderness medicine course.

For those of you that spend time in the outdoors, perhaps on extended paddling or backcountry trips where medical facilities are either a couple hours or days away, then consider taking WFR.

The Wilderness First Responder course covers medico-legal concerns, blood borne pathogens and infectious diseases and the Patient Assessment System (the foundation of the course) which trains students to determine what is going on with backcountry patients. Also covered in the course is instruction in traumatic situations, medical emergencies, hypothermia and heat related injuries. Practical simulations and labs provide practice in backcountry leadership and rescue skills. Certification is based on completion of the course and a final assessment of each students' skills via written and practical exams.

The course is set for March 11 - 19, 2000. The cost per person is approximately $475.00 depending upon enrollment and instructor housing. Minimum enrollment is 15, maximum is 30 students. Please contact Karen Meininger at 288-2830 or via e-mail at woodswaters@hotmail.com for further information and/or to register. Registration deadline is February 15, 2000.

You may find SOLO on the web at www.stonehearth.com for more information.

Greetings from the new FLOWlines Editors

At the FLOW Steering Committee meeting on January 6 Karen Alexander and Simon Barnett were appointed new co-editors of FLOWLINES, replacing retiring editors Helen Cherniack and Dan Bogaard. The appointments are effective immediately.

Karen has worked for the Democrat and Chronicle. She has been a FLOW member for 2 years, and enjoys whitewater paddling. Simon is employed by Xerox as a software engineer. He has been a FLOW member for 2 years and enjoys paddling flatwater with his wife and two sons and whitewater with anyone who will give him a ride to the water.

Karen will be coordinating the newsletter content and Simon will be coordinating the layout and production.

We look forward to hearing from you with any ideas and suggestions. See page 2 for how to get in touch with us.

National River Cleanup Week June 3-10, 2000

FLOW Coordinator Needed

Submitted by Jerry Hargrave

The ninth annual National River Cleanup Week will be held June 3-10, 2000. Every year, National River Cleanup Week promotes the importance of keeping rivers and streams clean and encourages cleanups of local waterways.

In 1999, more than 30,000 volunteers participated in the cleanup experience that helps communities focus attention on neglected waterways and stimulates cleanups of blighted areas. Civic clubs, businesses, paddle sport enthusiasts, fishing groups, outfitters, and conservation groups join together in many areas to organize and execute cleanups of their streams.

America Outdoors coordinates National River Cleanup Week by assisting local groups with information about how to conduct a successful cleanup. Groups that register their cleanups with America Outdoors are also eligible to receive free trash bags if their cleanups fall during the specified week. America Outdoors also provides educational materials and safety tips on waterway cleanups.

FLOW would like to sponsor one or more groups to clean up area waterways. Possible spots are Mendon Ponds, the Lake Ontario shoreline, and the Genesee River. If you are interested in leading a group, please contact Jerry Hargrave.

More information about the national campaign is available at 423-558-3595 or amoutdoors@aol.com.

Flow Annual Party

You missed it - or you were already there! Jan. 20th's annual party at McGinnity's was a great opportunity to catch up with your paddling buddies. Freezing temperatures and a few inches of snow did not deter a hearty contingency from enjoying beer and snacks while watching videos of Beaver and Moose River trips. Around the fireplace, stories were told of dislocated shoulders and broken noses from the whitewater paddlers. Seakayakers told of relaxing, pastoral outings. It's time to plan this season's trips. Who's going in the water first this spring?

Are you interested in a nimble and sleek all around kayak?

Come check out the NEW Velocity, by Sun (aka Riot) Kayak! We have a 'fresh off the mold' demo model at the shop.

Thanks Steve, A Kittelberger Retrospective

Steve Kittelberger's presidency of the FLOW Club will be remembered as a time of growth and vision. Steve's organization and dedication to the club provided the momentum to expand the options for Rochester area paddlers. Bravo!

Steve's Class III Runs With Class V Consequences

Submitted by Jerry Hargrave

Steve never lets a good swim get him down. In fact, I think he actually expects it! At least he acts very relieved when the first swim of the day is over. Here are classic examples.

Steve has always run the first rapid on the Ottawa - "Phil's Hole." Yet, even after many tries, he has never made it through unscathed. Every year, Steve proves true the law that states "The amount of time you spend scouting a rapid is directly proportional to the time you will spend getting trashed in it." Here's a typical scenario: Steve stands on the island by the "very scary ferry" watching numerous boaters successfully run "thread the needle" route. He must know from watching that you have to paddle furiously and never stop; this is not a good place to take in the scenery! As a result of standing there for at least an hour, he is usually the last person in his boat. By then, the rescuers are down by the whirlpool anxiously awaiting the typical result. I can usually hear Helen screaming, "He's coming! He's coming!" From below he appears to be right on line. Then, suddenly, as if hypnotized, he just stops paddling. Then he smiles as if to say "Oh well" and floats sideways into oblivion. I almost expect him to give a little parade wave just before disappearing into Phil's. Watching is painful!

Steve has lost at least two pairs of glasses in Phil's Hole in the past several years. Maybe the fish are getting smarter. I caught a large Catfish in the large pool below Phil's. It's not uncommon to catch a fish with remnants of a rusted hook in their lip or even wearing a six-pack ring for a necklace. But this fish had some wire device with glass pieces attached to it's head. It was a lure unlike any I have ever seen. I was removing it when I noticed one thin metal section had "Lens Crafters" imprinted on it. I realized it was a pair of glasses - the fish were wearing Steve's glasses! With tender skin like ours, the catfish don't frequent the dangerous rapids and rocks. (Isn't it odd that a cold blooded animal with a brain the size of a pea recognizes the danger of the rapids, yet a large intelligent mammal with a fifteen pound brain can't seem to realize the danger?)

Steve's second favorite masochistic run is Cattaraugus Creek, particularly Tannery Rapid. This is a fast but shallow rapid usually containing a log and a few car-sized boulders. The route is generally well defined and Steve typically scouts it for about an hour, maintaining old habits. For most paddlers this is the highlight of the canyon - Le Grand Finale. For Steve it is usually more like Le Coupe de Grace! Steve's epic swims here can't really be classified as a swim. The maneuver goes more like this: hang halfway out of your boat while gasping for air, slide down the flint covered rocks (don't forget to drag your face), then exit the rapid looking more like hamburger than a Xerox manager. Oh, and try not to lose your glasses! As outgoing President of FLOW, Steve has given us much. For that reason I have always been of the opinion that his yearly trashing in Phil's was some form of self-sacrifice to the River Gods. We will miss your leadership, Steve.

Note from the editors: Steve hasn't left yet, so if anyone out there has some good stories or photographs, please send them in so we can print them next month.
