Sixth Annual FLOW Summer Picnic

This year's paddling picnic extravaganza will be held on August 9-11. It coincides with a 750 CFS release on the Salmon River, and FLOW will convene at Stoney's campground in Pineville for a picnic and bonfire on Saturday, August 10.

Doug Caine Surfs Titanic on the Salmon

Tom Congden will again preside over the picnic proceedings, and Dave Griffey has been persuaded to repeat his "Garbage Can Turkey" — this year he's upped the ante to three birds.

Those of you who were at the Salmon Fest this year are well aware that there is an army surplus flame thrower floating around, so be sure to put an extra layer of flame-retardant on your tent and set up a good distance from the bonfire.

Food and refreshments will be provided by FLOW, and reduced camping rates are available for Friday and Saturday nights.

August Steering Meeting

Date: Tuesday, August 6
Time: 6:00 PM
Place: Mike Shafer's Paddling Paradise
89 Dorsetwood Drive

Steering committee meetings are open to all members. Feel free to just show up - your input is welcome. If you are not available but have an idea, send email to president@flowpaddlers.org.

Roll, Roll, Roll Your Boat

It was a beautiful evening at Mendon Ponds for the Thursday July 11th Roll Clinic. The clinic was the best attended FLOW event that I recall that did not involve free beer and food. The 20 participants included 4 new members (Bob Rotolo, Keith Shaw, Gary Zemel, & Scott Conyard) that greatly appreciated the help they got from instructors Harry Weidman, George Scherer, Cathy Corey, Steve Baker, and Jim "Hoppy" Hopkins. Both sea kayak group rescues and rolls for sea kayaks and WW boats were demonstrated and practiced.

It was so great we are going to do it again. Roll & Rescue Clinic # 2 is scheduled for Thursday 8/15 6:30 PM till dusk at the Widewaters on the northwest side of Lock 32 in Pittsford. You can park either adjacent to the Widewaters or at the WW park adjacent to the DOT and paddle across the canal and under the towpath bridge. Contact "Hoppy" at hoppyski@yahoo.com or 330-5649 evenings.

And again! The Roll & Rescue Clinic # 3 and September FLOW Meeting is scheduled for Thursday 9/12 6:30 PM till dusk. We'll be back at the Mendon Ponds Boat Launch.

Southern Trip 2002

Submitted by Mike Shafer

On this year's Southern trip, one could almost say we did not go "South" - we never left West Virginia! See, in one way we did not have a choice - rivers were pretty dry in the deeper South. But then again, there was no need to go there. There was more water, and more rain, around West Virginia than any of us expected. We got to more "new" rivers than ever before with more boaters than ever before - including two who came from Italy to be in on the fun.

Italian Contingency, Valerio and Nicola

The trip started in typical fashion, at the Lower Yough. Running 5.6 ft., and at a wonderful 43 degrees, we should have known then. The water was warmer and lower (yes lower) than we would see again. Not complaining here, but get the idea? The challenge all week was never to find a river with water, but finding one we felt OK about getting on.

Steve Baker on the Yough

From the Yough we went to West Virginia's Audra State Park, for the Middle Fork of the Tygert. On a beautiful, sunny day, we had enough pins, broaches, and swims to clue us in that we would be busy all week. And geez, it was the veteran boaters getting stung too, but I'll let them each tell you those stories, if they will (??).

So back to camp, and it began to rain. We put up the big tarp to huddle under, and cooked the first of our many, big feasts - ya see, we had Club-Cook Tommy Congdon along - so you all know we ate well! We stayed under our new shelter (like we hate getting wet) to eat and drink. And it kept raining. Give up - go to bed - while it rained some more... in the morning, we had a genuine river and lake in camp, good enough to paddle on. Dorothy, Doug, and Valerio used stick and paddle to re-route the waters and release the flood encroaching upon our tents, otherwise we might still be there. Getting desperate for a dry moment, we went to town for an indoor breakfast, to check river levels, and choose our next venue... while it rained. Ya know, I don't really remember when it stopped.

So off to a river...we headed for the Cranberry. Bill's route took them over a bridge now  $\frac{1}{2}$  under water...a clue we were en route to an adventure. We arrived to see six boaters taking off early in their run - too much water for them, they say. And two more came walking down the road, but carrying only one boat...seems the other boat (and paddle) was lost.

Scouting the Cranberry

We scouted a bit more, and then took the hint. We decided to wait a day and paddle this tomorrow. We set camp on the banks of the Cranberry, where we camped in style (primitive & free) for the next three days. Set up the big tarp again and Tommy made another feast. Even if we could not paddle, we knew what to do...

Feasting under the big blue tarp

Every day as we checked the gauges, we found rivers at three times the flow we had planned for. The classics we came for (Gauley, New, Cheat, etc) were all too high, but we now had a chance to run the creeks that feed them, ones that only run briefly during flood and heavy rain. A chance to do rivers only run when the time is right, we ran the Cranberry (twice), the Williams, the Cherry, the Middle and Upper Meadow. We ran 5 rivers in 3 days - tired but hey, when would we have a chance like this again?

Paddling the Meadow on Thursday put us in Gauley neighborhood, so we moved camp to the base of Gauley dam. No visit to West Virginia is complete, after all, without a pilgrimage to Gauley dam. Rebuilt to add hydropower, a new generator obstructs the classic view of the three output flumes, but a walkway now lets you walk right up to the two flumes that still run. Unrestricted, we could walk up close enough to touch the powerful canons on water if crazy enough.

Gauley Dam Up Close

Perhaps, we hoped, levels would come down enough to let us on the Gauley. But then, well, it rained. And rained. And rained. Like a theme song. Typical release during Gauley season is 2,800cfs...now it was running 15,000 cfs. Radio news said there were some parts of West Virginia now evacuating because of severe flooding. We decided it prudent to go north, to Albright West Virginia, for our planned visit of the Cheat watershed. They had gotten less rain and hopefully we could find something rational to do there.

Rain was not the only meteorological challenge this week. Valerio and Nicola had come all the way from Italy for a simple few promises - good times with friends, a few waterfalls, and warm weather. Well, two out of three isn't bad, eh? Camping at 28°F broke one promise, but hey...we did get you the waterfalls. Thursday we paddled Arden section of the Tygert. 15-foot Moats falls is a river wide gem...as long as you run it right. Only if you find that rock in the middle below is it not so good, right Bill?

Bill Kuipers, Moats Falls, Tygert River

Valerio Villa, Moats Falls, Tygert River

Vaughn Skinner, Tygert River

Friday at Teeter's we hooked up with Harry Marinakis and Jim Albano, and paddled the Little Sandy and Upper Big Sandy. Valerio had quietly decided Wonder Falls was to be included, and continued down through the Lower Big Sandy to have his way. Now he did not go alone...and what follows is a good demonstration of paddle logic. He says to Tony, "Are you continuing downstream through the Lower with us?" And he says to Nicola "Tony is going to stay on for the Lower, are you coming too?" Alas...a party of three was made.... Val had his wish once again.

Vaughn Skinner, Wonder Falls, Lower Big Sandy

Saturday was the Cheat River Festival. Some paddled the Big Sandy, some spent the day hiking in the sun, and all enjoyed the festivities at night. Seeing Teeter's campgrounds on festival weekend is worth the trip alone. One of the bigger boater-gatherings in the Eastern US, it has its original moments. Bands play, entertainment abounds. Boats, gear, and even non-boating crafts abound at Cheat fest, and the temptation to buy commemorative things is high. One of our constituents reportedly bought $400 worth of gear & collectables! But never to leave one of our own to the unwitting mercy of festival mania, we rescued Steve Benedict when we found him gazing at a for-sale SuperSport (Steve had a rough day, and was missing his former SS.) But no, we would not let him do it - we dragged him away to a hot cup of coffee, told him he cannot buy it, and reassured him that life in his new EZ is for the better. He has since confirmed that he is happy indeed with his new, modern boat!

On Sunday morning all would break and head for home. Some chose to rise early and drive home right away, some arranged to stop at McConnell Mills for a paddle on Slippery Rock Creek. There was also the "ambitious plan" - why not get up at the crack of dawn, paddle the 14-mile Cheat Canyon, have one last BBQ, and then drive home? Nothing to it. I had promised Valerio we would paddle the Cheat while he was here...he was holding me to this, and recruiting. Nicola said he wanted to. Tony overheard, and said he was in. Geez, now we have to. And like I was going to skip this? Where was I going...these guys were my ride? In the interest of discipline, Val declared "European Rules" prevail - "We put on the river at 8:00, or we put on the river at 8:00. Either way, we go." And for the only day all week, we were on the river early. The Cheat (3.6 ft) was a great way to finish the trip, and we met our noon-scheduled shuttle with 5 minutes to spare. With time on our side, we went back to camp, had one last BBQ, re-loaded the car one last time, and headed home.

Valerio wanted to make certain his and Nicola's trip was well remembered, and was frequently seen with a video camera.... taping from rocks, rivers, campgrounds and the drivers seat.

In a patient search for carnage, he was relentless. I'm not sure if the video forthcoming will include any road kill, but I can tell you he pointed out no less than 42 opportunities as he drove...I was counting! And there is at least one story of river carnage, but in defense of the boater(s) we'll have to wait and see if the video includes it. Hint - somebody ran S-turn on the Cranberry less than "right-side-up" and immediately asked the video-photographer if the camera was on or off... So wait, wonder, and imagine. Next FLOW winter party there may be a video replaying the lifestyles, fun, and antics of yet another trip down South. The fun was shared by Bill Kuipers, Steve Benedict, Vaughn Skinner, Helen Cherniack, Valerio Villa, Nicola Vismara, Mike Shafer, Steve and Zach Baker, Tom Congdon, Marty Murphy, Tony Hernandez, Ian Komorowski, Scott Griffin, Hoppy, Jim Albano, Harry Marinakis, Doug and Dorothy Caine, and Heather Mummery. Thank you to all who came, played, and helped - it was a great time!

Volunteers are needed to help clean up shorelines along the Genesee River and Lake Ontario

Submitted by Margit Brazda Poirier
Water Education Collaborative

What is there to do on a sunny, crisp, Saturday morning in September? You can participate in the Annual International Coastal Clean Up event held this year on September 21, 2002 from 9 a.m. - noon! Every year (for 15 years now), beaches, shorelines, and river banks are cleaned up by volunteers all over the world. Last year, 222 volunteers picked up litter along the shorelines of the Genesee River and Lake Ontario.

Together the volunteers collected and disposed of over 2 tons of trash (4000 lbs.!) from four locations: Durand Eastman Beach, Genesee Valley Park, Seth Green fishing site, and Turning Point Park. Volunteers worked in teams to pick up litter and also record the types and amount of trash found. This data is entered into a national database that you can access at: www.alsnyc.org.

Come be a part of this international event on Saturday, September 21st. The locations will be the same as last year, with the addition of several streams and the Erie Canal. Clean-up begins at 9 a.m. at all locations (except Durand Beach where it begins at 10 a.m.) and is followed by a free "trash bash" at the Sunset Shelter at Durand Eastman Park. Enjoy a picnic lunch, games, prizes, and entertainment to celebrate your efforts.

This event is sponsored by the Water Education Collaborative (Rochester Museum and Science Center, City of Rochester, Monroe County, Cornell Cooperative Extension), the 4H Earth Girls, the Town of Irondequoit, and Wegmans.

To register on-line, see www.thewec.org or contact Noreen Mazurowski (271-4552, ext. 324, or noreen\_mazurowski@rmsc.org) or Margit Brazda Poirier at margit\_brazda@rmsc.org (please note: these email addresses have an underscore, not a space between the names) at the Water Education Collaborative. You will receive confirmation of your registration a week before the event.

Cross Over to the Dark Side

Are you an experienced Sea Kayaker who is comfortable in waves & surf? Would you like to broaden your boating experience any try whitewater in a controlled atmosphere that only pushes you a little out of your comfort zone?

Then "Cross Over to the Dark Side" is the way to get there. It is a one night Whitewater Transition Course at the Lock 32 White Water Park for experienced Sea Kayakers. The curriculum includes outfitting for WW kayaks, upstream ferries, "Where did you meet this Eddy Left character?", eddy turns, eddy peel outs, and "Don't Take Your Low Brace Turn to Town Son or You'll be Counting Fish". Optional topics (time permitting) include downstream ferries, introduction to front surfing, stern squirts, and side surfing.

The class will be held on Wednesday, 8/7 at 6pm. The cost is $5 if you bring your own boat (10' or less boats recommended) or $15 if you need to rent a boat and equipment. Add $10 if you are not a FLOW member. Limited to five students (unless I get a 2nd volunteer instructor). Contact "Hoppy" at hoppyski@yahoo.com or 330-5649 evenings.

Want to try Kayak Polo?

Open Practices Tuesdays at Lock 32 Widewaters

The GWC Kayak Polo team invites you to try the new water sports game in Rochester. The team will be holding summer practices Tuesdays at 6:30 PM at the "Widewaters" on the north side of the canal at Lock 32 off Culver Road in Pittsford. Wednesday evening will be the alternate in the case of inclement weather. Check FLOW Message Board for latest schedule information.

Want to be on the Kayak Polo mailing list? Contact Jim Hopkins hoppyski@yahoo.com or 330-5649.

Want to play but don't have all the equipment (WW kayak, paddle, skirt, PFD, & helmet) contact Rob Blake Blake6@frontiernet.net 381-3604 evenings, 315-3000 days.
